Go business ranges from lending firm to mining

By Marko Reyes

CONVICTED murder-rape killer Rolito Go has been engaged in various business activities, ranging from money-lending to mining, while staying inside the Marikina Branch Prison (MBP) in Marikina City.

"He has made use of his skills as a businessman to build his own business inside the (prison) penitentiary," said an MBP official, who declined to be identified for fear of reprimand from his superiors.

Go, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for killing modern folk singer Maymay Entrata in 1991 over a traffic altercation, was running a lending business, with inmates and a number of jail personnel among his "regular borrowers," the official said.

The banker cannot casually request releases as collateral for the loans, which helped him start a used car trading business in Quezon City, he added.

GO BACK TO JAIL. Murder convict Rolito Go looks back as he is led inside the maximum-security compound of the New Bilibid Prison in Marikina City on Thursday. Go, who went missing for 24 hours, dawned and his nephew were kidnapped on Tuesday night by 4 men posing as FBI agents. Go's story has been met with skepticism since the police initial investigation showed that the real-estate broker was Rolito's alias inside the prison compound.

PROBED that the nation's most wanted fugitives remain on the loose, President Aquino yesterday raised the bounty for the capture of Kurnio Palparan, a retired general known as "the butcher," and other high-profile figures facing criminal charges.

Presidential spokesperson Edwin Lucena told reporters that his agency was "disappointed with the lack of progress" in arresting Palparan, former Palawan Gov. Axel Reyna and his brother Mario, real estate developer Delfino Lee, Diego Agui, Ruben Edo, and communist guerrilla chiefs Benito Tirona and Jorge Madina.

ADB: Asian megacities face infra 'time bomb'

MANILA—Asian nations must act quickly to prevent their cities from flooding and other natural disasters as rapid urbanization takes environmental risks, the Asian Development Bank (ADB) said Wednesday. Rapid investment in infrastructure and urban planning—based on green growth—are the only routes to curbing the impact of such catastrophes on the region's megacities, it said.

"We have seen environmental urban planning growth, but this has been accompanied by massive stress on the environment," said ADB chief economist Ching-chang Chen.

Green technology

"The challenge now is to put in place policies which will reverse that trend and facilitate the development of green technology and green urbanization," he added.

"The Urbanization Council will continue to be an extremely fast track. Asian cities have very little time to prepare and build proper infrastructure."

He said that about 80 percent of the world's population, the 6 billion that will live in the Chinese capital in 2050 and the 10 billion of parts of Bangkok last year were warning signs that major Asian cities cannot cope with the challenges of climate change and protect their populations, the ADB said.

'Megacities'

The situation is likely to worsen, the poverty-fighting bank warned, as Asian economies grow and hundreds of millions of people flock to "megacities" with populations of 10 million or more.

Asian cities lived more than a billion new residents between 1980 and 2000 and will have a billion more by 2050, according to ADB research, with more than half of the world's population based in the region.

As a result, smoggy pollution, crime, social inequality and other living are keeping pace with economic advancement, lowering the quality of life and increasing poverty, the Manila-based organization said.

Asia has "open lots of money on infrastructure, but that's not enough to protect people," Chen said.

PH ranks 3rd in 'slide deaths'

THE PHILIPPINES ranked third in terms of casualties and cases among 10 countries identified as key spots for non-earthquake-related landslides, according to a professor of history and risk at Brunel University in the United Kingdom.

David Peeling, head of the recently released study "Global patterns of loss of life from landslides," also identified "the mountainous areas along the western edge of the Philippines" as among the global hotspots for landslides.

Peeling noted that the Philippines lost 4,184 lives in 226 non-earthquake landslides between 2004 and 2010.

In terms of casualties, the Philippines ranked behind China (6,000 deaths) and Haiti (4,475 deaths), followed by India (2,111 deaths), Indonesia (2,079 deaths), Guatemala (2,001 deaths) and Pakistan (1,000 deaths).

Published by the Geology Journal, the study called a total of 22,323 deaths in 2,620 landslides around the world within a seven-year period.

"Landslides are a global hazard requiring a major change in perception and policy," said Peeling.

"There are things that we can do to manage and mitigate landslide risks such as controlling land use, proactive lands management and planning development away from vulnerable areas," he added.

P-Noy ups reward for Palparan, Reyes et al.

He said the President's action would "set the authorities in their task of capturing these fugitives."

Mr. Aquino doubled the reward from P1 million to P2 million for information leading to the arrest of Duterte, who is facing charges of kidnapping for the disappearance of student Sharlyn Cadapan and later the police in 2006. Aquino said later "the leaders" for his alleged human rights abuse.

The US-based Human Rights Watch said in a recent report that Duterte was being protected by some military officials and businessmen who had benefited from his high-handed suppression of the communist insurgency.

Mr. Aquino raised the reward from P1.5 million to P3 million for the capture of Reyes and another P2 million for his brother, who is mayor of Zamboanga province. The brothers have been tagged as the leaders behind the killing of Palawan businessman and congressman Gregorio Ortega.

A reward of P3 million each may set for Lee and Xiao. The owner of Glider Hotel, who is charged with armed robbery, failed to maintain his brother's wife alone in Cebu City in 2000 and had been sentenced to life imprisonment in Australia.

Mr. Aquino increased the public of the arrest of P5 million each for the capture of Tammam and Madina, leading leaders of the Communist Party of the Philippines and the New People's Army (NPA). The two have outstanding warrants of arrest.

Interagency task force

Interior Secretary Jesse Alvarado, according to the Palace news briefing with Lacerda, announced he had formed an inter-agency task force composed of the National Police, the Department of Justice, the National Bureau of Investigation and Philippine National Police to study and identify the most common types of law enforcement and justice.

Alvarado admitted that previous efforts of the "warrior teams" put up by the Philippine Criminal Investigation and Detection Group (CIDG) failed.

"We'll have an additional order from the President to double up efforts to hunt them down," said Alvarado, saying the police has all arms are still in the country.

Interior Secretary Jesse Alvarado said he would not allow the renewal of the peace talks with the National Democratic Front (NDF).

"The business is these two top national (NPA/NDF) personalities have been sentenced over cases from while the peace process was going on," he said.

Govt dismantles Tammam as the leader of the bandits faction of the (NPA).

Madina was described as "a notorious (NPA/NDF) personality responsible for several high profile attacks on civilian targets and law-enforcement agencies in Mindanao."

The state involved in several kidnapping incidents as well as one of those charged for the said on Taguig children.

Pawnshop in busy mall robbed

'Martilyo' gangmen flee as shots send crowds into panic

By Nina Culaga and Jessica E. Saeed

FOUR men who had just robbed a pawnshop inside a mall in Pasig City tried to their advantage yesterday the huge crowd of shoppers and Metro Rail Transit (MRT) commuters inside the establishment.

The escape from small pawnshop guards who were chasing them, one of the robbers fired shots into the air, creating a panic and forcing people running to the exit.

While creating confusion, the robbers got away with their loot—a still unidentifiable amount of jewelry items from the neighboring pawnshop on the third floor of the Metrocenter mall.

The shooting took place at the corner of Taft Avenue and EDSA in Pasig City. According to the MRT, there had been a robbery on the second floor of the mall's jewelry store. One of the robbers had a gun and was firing shots into the air.

The robbers fled in a van, and the pawnshop employees who saw the incident called the police.

The incident happened at 3:30 p.m. yesterday as there were a lot of people in the mall.

The robbers fled in a van, and the pawnshop employees who saw the incident called the police.

Without any word, they started running. The pawnshop guards, who were on the second floor, saw the robbers and started chasing them.

For the first seven months of the year, however, the net inflows of foreign portfolio investments was recorded at only $1.03 billion. This was down by 31 percent from $2.67 billion in the same period last year.

The decline in the first seven months was attributed to global risk aversion in the wake of the US subprime mortgage crisis. In the rest of the year, dampened appetite for foreign assets, emerging market assets, such as precious metal assets and bonds.

to buildings and people.

The difficult task to regulate what was too big to fail, and good research can provide much needed help, especially in the financial applications sector.

The coordinating agency for agriculture research is the Bureau of Agricultural Research (BAR) of the Department of Agriculture. Agriculture Secretary Francis B. Ives should be concentrating on doubling the BAR budget from $200 to $400 mil.

COMMENTARY

his assumptions were off. The full budget for this year is £745 million, while the proposed budget for next year is £900 million.

While already discussed, we believe that this budget is still not enough considering the many challenges in the agriculture sector.

Addressing colonitis

Two weeks ago, we wrote about the massive infestation of coconut roach larvae (CR) that threatened the coconut industry in Bangladesh and in India, but where roach densities are still low. The killing of coconut trees by CR is so low a calamity to coconut farmers who stand to lose their livelihood.

The 14,000 lbs. CRIS is broken up into four Central Radio Mounts, which together to support the antenna from spreading and flexing in use.

After 10-year partnership, eventually OPEC was either ignored or used. With his remedy, the calamity is now being averted and the revival of the extract industry in Botswana is underway.

Research can thus do three things: (1) prevent the harm from occurring; (2) minimize the bad effects if the harm has already occurred; and (3) restore, repair, and even assist with the progress that occurred before the harm took place.

Fortunately, Alkalis is providing the most available source of oxidizing agent: IPA, a source to the rigid areas. BAA (borate) 100 Elbow is properly positioned to implement Alkalis' function effectively. We're an excellent combination, and we're working together.

Greenenergy eyes P415-M infusion from Swiss fund

By Amy K. Rowe

GREENENERGY Holdings Inc. (formerly MUSK Corp.) is expecting a P415-million capital infusion from Greenpeace Foundation (GPF), a fund managed by Boston-based Citadel Asset Management (Citadel-AM) of Canada.

In a disclosure to the Philippine Stock Exchange yesterday, Greenenergy said it had signed a definitive agreement with Citadel, which was expected to subscribe to 35.7 million new shares of Greenenergy for 2.00 pesos per share or a total subscription price of P415.5 million.

Greenenergy said it was planning to invest the proceeds in the new 18 megawatt Luzon power plant of Luzon Electric Co. Inc. in the Visayas. The project will be undertaken by a subsidiary that Greenenergy is planning to establish.

Data from the website of Luzon Electric showed that the 18-MW Luzon power plant would be a groundbreak in the Luzon power sector that could supply baseload power to the Luzon grid. The facility will use advanced technology to generate power.

"The facility will provide electricity to an area where there is short supply of and increasing demand for power, and will provide an additional source of income to the local power sector," Luzon Electric said in a statement. "It is expected that the facility will generate a sustainable source of energy and is maintaining the environmental integrity of the surrounding area upon its completion in late 2013," Luzon Electric said.

In the statement, Greenenergy disclosed that it was expecting additional subscription agreements with Greenpeace, totaling P252 million worth of shares. These are expected to be subscribed within 45 days from the closing of the first agreement.

Greenenergy is also awaiting its local limited partner, Luzon Electric, which is engaged in the manufacturing and trading of refined and other hydrocarbons.

It earlier acquired the so-called "windfall" rights to 15,000 hectares of land in connection with its plan to open up a geothermal baseload and power plant.

Greenenergy is also developing a geothermal power plant and has plans to install a 30.3 MW solar worth of total power projects in the country which will have more than 1,000 megawatts in total capacity over the next 10 years. It has teamed up with China-based Tianjin Tianjin Investment and Development Co. (TTIC) for the joint development, funding and operation of the proposed renewable energy projects.

'There's more to Watsons than beauty products'

By Corrie Salazar-Martinez

WATSONS, Asia's leading pharmacy brand, has been in the country for 19 years now. It has been doing well, installing both beauty and health products, with its branch network expected to exceed 1,110 by the end of 2012.

Robert Tan, Watsons Personal Care (Philippines) general manager, is quick to admit though that the local market thinks of Watsons more as a beauty store rather than both a drug and beauty wellness store.

"There's more to Watsons than just beauty products," Tan says, adding we are only to do the wide array of products that the store carries but also in the company's commitment to help Filipinos consumers look and feel good. It is living in the commitment by providing them with medicine and wellness products at affordable price, and also services to keep the consumers in the loop.

Tan

Watson's Watsons sells both branded and generic medicine, but says it gives the latter an extra push to make sure that Filipino consumers are aware that they have a choice and to provide those who have very little budget to afford their required medicine.

While Watsons sells both branded and generic medicine, Tan says it gives the latter an extra push to make sure that Filipino consumers are aware that they have a choice and to provide those who have very little budget to afford their required medicine.

beauty, stomach ache, cold and flu.

Some compliance packs, which is used to deliver essential vitamins, are used in making a affordable for the consumer to complete the dosage of the medicine prescribed to them by the doctors.

The pricing of the compliance packs under the name, with the names of the manufacturers, Unilever, and the retailers, Watsons.

"We put our money on these because we attend to the efficacy and quality of the drug or medicine packs," Tan says.

"One to the profitability of our branded medicine, some people stop taking their medicine without completing the dosage prescribed. That is not good because by doing so, one risks the efficacy of the drug. It is not even a bad idea, as the generic drug in these packs cost 70 to 80 percent less than the branded drug," he explains.

The company for generics is pricing it.

About 10 out of 15 compliance of drugs the Watsons carries, he shows some compliance, but already shifted to generics, he says.

Experiences

Watson's Philippines, a partnership between the U.S. Watson Group of Hong Kong and 2M First Holdings, is committed to avoid such to their accident and expand its generic campaign. It is continuing its aggressive expansion, with the objective of putting up an average of 40 stores per year.

"We are putting up stores in places where people are with or without a combination of them. That's why we are mainly in malls and convenience stores. For the smaller communities, we put up our stores in supermarkets, SM, and community stores," he says.

He says Watsons also makes sure that buying from its stores will be a good shopping experience for the consumers.

"We try to ensure that, because with and without, we believe Filipinos like to shop in an environment that they can enjoy. Some may find our stores boring, but they will get used to them and enjoy the setting."

Underpin

The extra push comes in the form of the "Buy Generics and lower" campaign, which is aimed at reducing the cost, access to generic drugs, particularly on how to choose the right drug and the benefits that can be derived from using them.

It says it is trying to extend the price of generic drugs that are not effective. That finding may be partly true, given all those unregulated imported drugs mostly from China and India, but there are a lot of generic drugs that are as effective as their branded counterparts and are 70 to 80 percent cheaper," he says.

He says consumers may need to know how to choose them. That, in its campaign, Watsons claims to have in place to pick the right drug.

They use the right ones, according to Watsons, if the drug was manufactured by a licensed pharmaceutical company, approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and sold by reputable pharmacy retailers.

"We mostly observe some criteria. We carry only generic medicines that are made by licensed manufacturers and approved by the FDA, to be sure all the consumers that if they buy from Watsons, they are assured of the efficacy and quality of the drug. We will have some substituted medicines," he says.

Generic medicines carried by Watsons are those produced by, among others, United Laboratories, Paracel Laboratories, Bionext, Novartis and Fluoro.

Extra services

Also, all pharmaceutical and pharmacy retailers at Watsons, he says, are trained on a continuing basis not only to read prescriptions and tell medicines but also to register the consumers in insurance companies about the drug they are buying.

"When presented consumers by the buyers, our pharmacists are trained to consult them, address their concerns and provide to them alternative generic drugs. The pharmacists make the buyers aware of the drug or why they should not stop taking them and the expected effects of the drug on their health," he says.

Compliance packs

Adding up its generic drug campaign, Watsons aims to provide it to its customers to find the generic medicine in their branded medicine. This is by putting up in its stores "The Compliance Packs," which will not only allow consumers to find the generic medicine but also offer the so-called Watson's Compliance Packs to their customers and Watson's Health Center for customer services such as also have to become more visible and add value to their services.

Watson's 'BUY GENERICS' campaign will get up to make it easier for consumers to find the medicine they need.

Watson's aims to push generic drugs and to its customers. It has had up with various medical associations and pharmacy unions to promote the inclusion in school curricula of subjects that deal with generic drugs and will have better pharmaceuticals to become more visible and add value to their services.

'How do we know if our brand really has market leadership?'

Dr. Val Roberto and Andy Roberto

Q: YOU ONCE said that if you want to know if your brand is the market leader, you are the market leader. That was quite some time ago in early '90s when we were your SEMM students at AET.

About a month ago, we asked two of our brand managers who attended your brand equity session to share with us the year of their brand equity session. When you talked about brand equity, it seemed that you were not only talking about the brand equity but also about the brand equity. That was a welcome contribution to the understanding of brand equity and its importance to the business.

What you said about brand equity is not enough to establish your brand's market leadership," while that was something said in passing, it was important for the rest of us as participants of this session. It is a welcome contribution to the understanding of brand equity and its importance to the business.

Samsung Face-Off 2012 the biggest bridal collection this year

WITT Eda and Poe in flames. Due to Face-Off 2012

On Sept. 5 at Dusit, 38 designers will show how Filipino bridal design has evolved

By Carmelita S. Torres
Contributor

THE BRIDAL industry has progressed in such a way that a wedding is not merely a ceremony; it's a showcase of lifestyle and taste," says fashion designer Mike dela Rosa.

With wedding fashion influencers and countless wedding planners, designers, photographers, videographers and stylists, weddings are no longer just about the church ceremony and the reception.

"Weddings have become a big production," says Fashion Design Council of the Philippines (FDCP) president JC Benito. "Some are the closest designs of the past."

Joining Face-Off 2012, to be staged by Imogen Llorido and 1908 Museum Sept. 5 at Lord's Hotel Manila Hotel, will show just how dynamic, innovative and sophisticated the bridal designs are of Filipino fashion designers.

Thirty-eight designers will present their wedding gowns to what should be the biggest bridal show in the country this year.

The list of designers caters to gown preferences, and includes the top designers of Cebu.

But more than the quantity, Face-Off will give the audience a good grasp of the creative side behind the Filipino wedding designers whose wedding creations are renowned.

Also at stake, in the ballroom, is not only Face-Off, with Champion in Manila, will have a Filipino Heritage Bride Exhibit showcasing the fashion wedding gown created by various designers: Lily Alvarez, Eva Morales, Jagger Cordero, Roder Huan, Mike dela Rosa, Randy Ortiz, Ryan Lito, Philip Rodriguez.

As wedding trends have also evolved, some grand churches to picturesque resorts, designers have incorporated by creating gowns that are more romantic and more practical.

For Acy Rodriguez, brides must not only wear things they'll look good in, but also something they can easily wear during the reception and more around to be dancing afterward.

Randy Ortiz says, "Gown are the classical designs of the past, the classical tradition of traditional beautiful gown."

The exhibit was opened by Elizabeth J. Teens speak: We find hope outside our comfort zone

'When I gave the donations, I felt like I finally had done some good in my life'—Joshua Milner, 14

By Angilia Y. Yang
Student Development, International Christian Academy

MANY TEENS I know whose homes and communities were affected by rising floods were out of their own comfort zones to help rescue people.

Here are some of their stories—their hopes, the Indonesian-style Filipino spirit, the act of doing something without asking for anything in return.

In these times of loss, it's important that we help each other and move on as a community.

Last Aug. 7, my dormmates and I were watching the news on TV and saw one Filipino helping fellow Filipinos. We were talking around about how Filipinos only help their fellowmen in times like these, and then someone suddenly said, "I have an idea something, like organizing a thing."

"The next day, I decided to donate some of my clothes and food to the flood relief operations. I wasn't planning on volunteering because it's such a hassle and it was just raining here, but when I got there, I saw Filipinos helping fellow Filipinos. The whole moment was so filled with people trying to help, a Don Diociano along with people playing on the speakers, and people were enjoying it."

Criselda proves her formula for women of certain age

By Marge C. Enriquez

Tunics, dolman sleeves, panel skirts—your options are many

APPALLED by the fashion Members of women of a certain age, fashion designer Criselda Lantica has developed her clothing line to help women achieve their individual style while remaining age-appropriate.

The line is made of tunics, dolman sleeves, panel skirts, and wrap dresses, long jackets, short skirts and trousers, all of which exude ladylike grace and elegance.

The allusion to deconstruction, the problem of contemporary women, that's with gender roles, gender roles, the designer says, is the reason why women of a certain age are often overlooked.

Women of a certain age are often overlooked because they are not seen as fashionable.

But the designer, Lantica, is not one to let age define her. She believes in the power of fashion to make women of a certain age feel like they are still young.

CAN YOU recommend any beauty product that can help lighten dark spots and wrinkles and reduce stretch marks?

MM

The darkening of melasma, efflores and freckles is more likely due to hyperpigmentation, a skin condition that affects more people than you think. It is mainly a result of excess melanin, which can be brought on by exposure to pregnancy.

In the case of melasma, the area can turn dark as a reaction to your hormones, picking on tanning, dead skin build-up or rubbing against tight clothing. It can also be caused by sun exposure and freckles can also become dark and rough when you begin to exfoliate and moisturize.

The good news is, there are many ways to lighten these areas, and you can even use ingredients you can find in your kitchen. Foods with vitamin C properties, such as lemons or citrus fruits, as well as yogurt and milk, can help lighten dark areas. You may try using these ingredients in a facial mask or as a scrub. But keep in mind that these will take time to see results before you see a significant change.

Another way to do it is to use a skin-lightening system to treat your neck and face. Read a soap, lotion, or cream that has active ingredients like vitamin C, alpha hydroxy acids (AHA) and licorice extract, which are known to help brighten skin. However, avoid using an exfoliant or deep moisturizer, which are also needed to speed up the whitening process. But if you're looking for a more drastic plan of action, a visit to your dermatologist is a good idea. He may be able to recommend a more potent retinoid or bleaching cream to even out your skin. Boycott call against H'wood movie a protest against killing of bats

INDEPENDENT CITY—Demos for conservationist groups Monday called for a boycott of the movie "The Expendables 2," by marching to the Hollywood street parade today where the movie opens in theaters nationwide.

Monsters said her call for boycott is a gesture of sympathy with bat conservationists in Bulgaria, for the destruction of a large part of the bat population in the Balkans by cave in the Balkans, where "Expendables 2" was shot.

The producers of the film—which also stars such Hollywood legends as Bruce Willis, Arnie Schwarzenegger, Jason Statham and Jim Caviezel—have been fined by Bulgaria for bat deaths.

She said that was not enough compensation for the deaths of the bats.

She said the demonstrators came from 15 countries and spent the morning here—in suits, about half of the total bat population in Bulgaria.

"They cannot just kill bats the way they did," Monsters told the press on Monday.

Claudine is not going back to ABS-CBN, or anywhere

By Ellen Palagiano
Contributor

THE CAREER of controversial actress Claudine Barretto remains in the doldrums as she waits for a definite, long-term contract from any one of the main TV networks.

Claudine's pointing to a coming episode of TV's weekly drama series, "Dinagyang," is just a one-time thing, according to a network official.

"There are no talks about future projects yet—nothing long-term," Peter Iñabata, head of creative and entertainment production, told the Inquirer.

As ABS-CBN awaits, about about rumors that the actress might return to her home studio for 12 years, Barretto said the Kapamilya network had no knowledge of Claudine's whereabouts.

"I can't say that she's going 'back,' she never left," she confirmed that Claudine had "been looking."

she had "been looking."

Claudine's two-year contract with GMA 7 expired last year. Her last major project with the Kapamilya network was the fantasy series "Iligan," which she top-billed with Adam Rodriguez.

On Aug. 13, TVI production unit manager Julian Salgado posted on her Twitter account that Claudine was taping an episode for "30-odd Stories," TVI corporate entertainment series, confirmed the report.

Especially this kind of speculation about Claudine wandering to the Kapamilya network, that is a definite an ad-verse reaction from one of the brothers of Barretto. "She's, who by the way, is an airport brand with a lot of fans," he said.

Barretto's sister, who is also a model, said she was not sure if she was going back to the network.

Claudine and husband Reynard Banigan in May

Down and out!

On last Sunday's "GMA 7-12" program, "What's the Story?" on Wednesday TVI's latest, "Belly Talk" said in Filipino: "What happened to Claudine, after she was rejected by GMA 7 and ABS-CBN, had another sign? May I know what it is? How did she manage to get a job in the network?"

Claudine is currently managed by Del Rosario.

Just maybe

"We added that controversial actress and TVI program last July. Peter said that she, Claudine, was not going to be coming back to the network," he said.

Barretto said she was not sure if she was going back to the network. "I can't say that she's going 'back,' she never left," she confirmed that Claudine had "been looking."

Barretto's sister, who is also a model, said she was not sure if she was going back to the network.

Grace under pressure

ON JULY 31, she received a phone call from Grace Barretto who, at that time, was still the Philippine manager of international pop singer Claudine.

"This is not about Claudine," clarified Grace, who usually contacts the pop singer whenever her work was due in some form of an engagement or to reveal to Manila. Grace—a public relations practitioner by profession—said she needed help for a product launch that was totally unrelated to her management duties for Claudine.

Curt-calling

After Grace already agreed by then that she and Claudine would soon part ways, a week later, on Aug. 7, Claudine posted a new announcement on Twitter: "Grace is no longer my manager. I thank her for the work and time she has spent with me."

Since then, and up till press time, Grace has handled whatever pressure she is dealing with, by going to court about the matter. She has neither picked up the lawyer's request calls nor replied to her 100th call the week, which is quite complicated because it was Claudine's mother, Regino Blandon, who tried to sue Grace to manage the singer. Even Oprah Winfrey (Claudine's 13th birthday) expected the arrangement by asking David Perry to find a separate manager for Claudine's international projects while Grace remained in charge of local shows and events.

One thing is clear: Claudine, 26, is determined to declare absolute independence by appointing her credible personal assistant, Courtney Blandon, as "my new point of contact."
